

Brook: The Dog and Pheasant

Distance: 6½ km=4 miles

easy walking with one short steep ascent

Region: Surrey

Date written: 22-nov-2013

Author: Schwebefuss

Date revised: 1-apr-2025

Refreshments: Brook??

Last update: 29-jul-2025

Map: Explorer 133 (Haslemere) but the maps in this guide should be sufficient

Problems, changes? We depend on your feedback: feedback@fancyfreewalks.org

Public rights are restricted to printing, copying or distributing this document exactly as seen here, complete and without any cutting or editing. See Principles on main webpage.

Village, pub, hills, woodland, green meadows

In Brief

Sadly, the Dog and Pheasant closed its doors in 2025 “trying to re-open”. For now, the description has been retained. Still a stunning walk!

You'll find the Dog and Pheasant immediately opposite the second most important place in Brook: the Cricket Pitch. The pub was purchased in 2008 by four local businessmen one of whom lived at the pub as a boy. The pub really is the centre of the community with every day a special day. Every Wednesday the chef comes out of the kitchen and will grill your T-bone steak in the inglenook. Bring together more than five people and you can have a suckling pig. Note that the chef leaves for a pint at 8.30 pm sharp! Beers are Ringwood, TEA and a rotating range of other guests. For bookings, call 01428 682763.

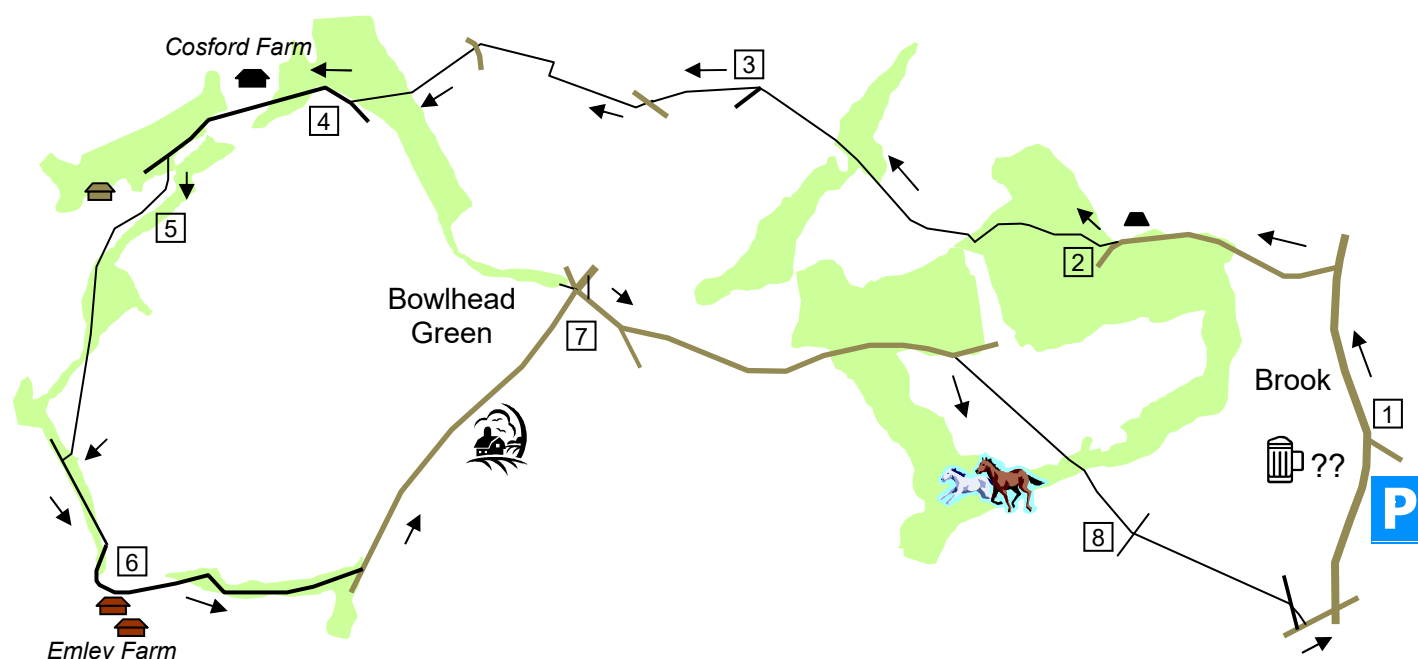

You may arrive in time for the Brook Fête on May Bank Holiday when the pub plays host to the Brookfest with live bands. The other notable building is the Pirrie Hall, given in 1923 by Lord Pirrie, owner of Witley Park (see below), looking a bit like a cricket pavilion. You will see the Pirrie name on many of the old metal gates all over the area as a letter "P" inside a round steel shield with a star below a crown, a reminder that this was once part of the Lea Park estate of Lord Pirrie. (He was not a modest man.)

There are no nettles on this walk so any sensible clothing should be fine. In summer it is fairly dry underfoot, although boots will make you more comfortable. In a wet winter, high boots or wellies are necessary. Most of the stiles have a big gap for your dog to get through but if he is large he may have some difficulty. The quiet livestock seen on the original day of writing seems to have disappeared from the route.

The walk begins in the village of Brook, near Haslemere, Surrey, postcode GU8 5UJ, www.w3w.co/potato.piston.barstool. Park opposite the Dog and Pheasant pub in a side road alongside the green, or at the “blunt” end of a residents' parking patch, www.w3w.co/fattest.sunset.glorified, near the start of the walk. For more details, see at the end of this text (→ Getting There).

The Walk

- 1 With the pub on your left, walk along the main road for about 300m. Just after the 50 mph sign, turn left on a narrow lane, Bowlhead Green Road. (Don't miss the "deer" and "fawn".) Note that you are walking part of the Greensand Way (GW) long-distance path: you will be following it for 2¼ km. You pass houses on your left whilst on your right is the long stone wall enclosing Witley Park. (For its remarkable story, see the walk in this series "Witley, Hambledon, Chiddingfold".) After 400m along the lane, you reach a small gatehouse on the right, Pine Lodge. Fork right immediately after the lodge and go through a tall metal kissing-gate in the wall ahead.
- 2 The path veers right and leads uphill rather steeply under ever-darkening laurel trees. Thankfully, the path soon levels out and on your left is a beautiful green field dotted with mature oaks. The path darkens again under hollies and takes you through another old (unneeded) kissing-gate as it veers left with the oak field on view again. At the end of this narrow section, your route veers right and left to run along a wide green path between wire fences with open meadows on each side. The path veers right and runs under chestnuts and oaks as it descends into the valley and rises again on the other side. At the top, your path takes you through a tall kissing-gate in front of Lower House. Avoid a driveway on your left and cross straight over to go through a small metal gate and a modern kissing-gate into a small narrow meadow.
- 3 Follow a double line of young cherry trees and go through a modern kissing-gate at the far side. Keep ahead through another double line of young trees and go through a large wooden gate onto a tarmac drive. Cross the drive, up steps opposite, through a small wooden gate and immediately go right along the right-hand side of a large field. As you wheel right round the first corner, go through a metal gate and turn left on a path running under trees. At the end, you reach a tarmac lane. Cross the lane to go up a bracken-covered bank and through a small modern kissing-gate. Continue across the centre of the pasture heading for a wood ahead. As you reach the other side, go over a stile and through another modern kissing-gate, then down through woodland. In 30m keep straight on by a marker post steeply for another 70m, and veer right where you meet a bridleway coming in from the left.

- 4 In only 20m, take a path on your left by a marker post and descend a short steep path with some stone steps, going under yew trees, joining a path coming from the left, walking gingerly over a marshy section using some improvised boards. A large pond comes into view on your right, and soon you pass a large pond on your left. You are now walking in front of Cosford Farm House on a wide grassy route between old brick walls. You pass a spectacular piece of topiary and join a tarmac drive coming from the house. Where the tarmac drive shortly bends right uphill, leave it to keep straight ahead along a dirt track, indicated by a yellow arrow, thus leaving the GW. Follow the track gently downhill between banks for just over 100m until your track goes through the smaller of two wooden gates. Turn left here through a swing-gate.
- 5 Your path goes over a stream and bends right under wires along the top of a sloping meadow with a timbered cottage and its barn forming a comely picture below. Aim for the top left corner and when you reach it go through an old metal swing-gate. Continue along a narrow path through a dense holly wood. Your path emerges through a metal kissing-gate into a meadow. Keep the same direction across it diagonally, cutting the right-hand corner of the meadow. At the top corner, your path leads you through a kissing-gate and veers left onto a wide enclosed path. In 150m or so, go over a robust stile (or through the adjoining metal gate) and turn right on a track.
- 6 Shortly you reach the ancient buildings of Emley Farm. Dating from the 1600s, this is a grade-II listed timber-framed farmhouse with its barns and outbuildings all unchanged from the 1800s. If it seems familiar, this is because it a favourite location for film and TV productions that need a pure unspoilt historic rural setting. Keep straight ahead through the farm on the wide driveway ignoring a stile and a yellow arrow between the barns visible up on your right. The driveway, which is also a footpath, zigzags right-left and finally leads past a 1-bar barrier to a lane. Turn left on this quiet narrow lane between high hedgerows. You pass a Bowlhead Green Farm with its converted barns and lifesize “cow” and arrive at a crossroads in the centre of the quiet hamlet of Bowlhead Green.
- 7 Turn right at the crossroads on a lane signposted Brook, Witley, immediately keeping left at a fork, passing a pond and a seat on your right. This narrow shady lane runs alongside the wall of Witley Park on the left. You pass the entrance to Uplands Park, then the entrance to Birch Copse. In a further 200m, look for a fingerpost high up on your right (don't miss!) and some steps leading up the bank (once very overgrown and hard to see - now very clear and unmissable). Go right here up some steps and through a kissing-gate into a large grassy meadow. Follow the direction of the fingerpost, which is straight across but slightly left, on a path across the grass which is easy to see thanks to the imprint of many feet. As you go over the crest of the slight slope, you see a modern kissing-gate ahead.
- 8 Go through the kissing-gate, descending through undergrowth and through an old metal gate. Your path takes you through a bracken area, down steps to another ornate metal gate (with another of those round Pirrie shields) and down to a track by another old metal gate. Cross over the track to a modern kissing-gate and cross the pasture to go through a pair of similar gates either side of a ditch (care! you may need to watch your footing if wet). Bear a fraction left on a faint grass path, going past an oak on your left. The path becomes clearer and, as you proceed you will see another kissing-gate at the far right-hand end of a wire fence. After this gate, the route is straight across a drive to an antique metal swing-gate (however the old gate is so rusted, most walkers simply turn right on the drive). Turn left on a road and take a high path on the left which curves round to join the main road leading back to the Dog and Pheasant where the walk began.

Getting there

By car: Brook is on the A286 road between Milford (near Guildford) and Haslemere, Surrey.

By bus/train: bus 70 from Haslemere or Guildford station, not Sunday. Check the timetables.

fancy more free walks? www.fancyfreewalks.org