

---

Barns Green: The Queens Head (pub walk)

---

Distance: 8 km=5 miles

easy walking

Region: West Sussex

Date written: 27-jun-2016

Author: Moussehaine

Last update: 5-dec-2025

Refreshments: Barns Green

Map: Explorer 134 (Horsham) but the map in this guide should be sufficient

Problems, changes? We depend on your feedback: feedback@fancyfreewalks.org

Public rights are restricted to printing, copying or distributing this document exactly as seen here, complete and without any cutting or editing. See Principles on main webpage.

Pub, green floral meadows, isolated church, wild roses, woodland paths

---

In Brief

---

There's nothing you won't like about the Queens Head pub, except perhaps the rather strange "postage stamp" motif of our very own Queen Elizabeth II on the pub sign. Until 1852, the pub was known as the Bricklayers Arms and that reminds you that people come here from all walks of life: the locals from the surrounding villages together with country householders seeking a good atmosphere and Sunday lunch. The regular nosh is unpretentious and well-organised but should satisfy all, especially the locally-sourced meat and the cod which is "hand battered". Recently this pub has become more gentrified with extra emphasis on dining, which can be partaken of in the outdoor marquees. However, the Queens Head is still friendly and raises a smile as soon as you enter. Note that the pub doesn't open till 4pm Monday and Tuesday, so don't plan to have lunch there on those days.

This is a calming walk through quiet green meadows and woodland, where you may see the first bluebells of spring and many other wild flowers, with one or two surprises, especially the church at the tiny village of Itchingfield.

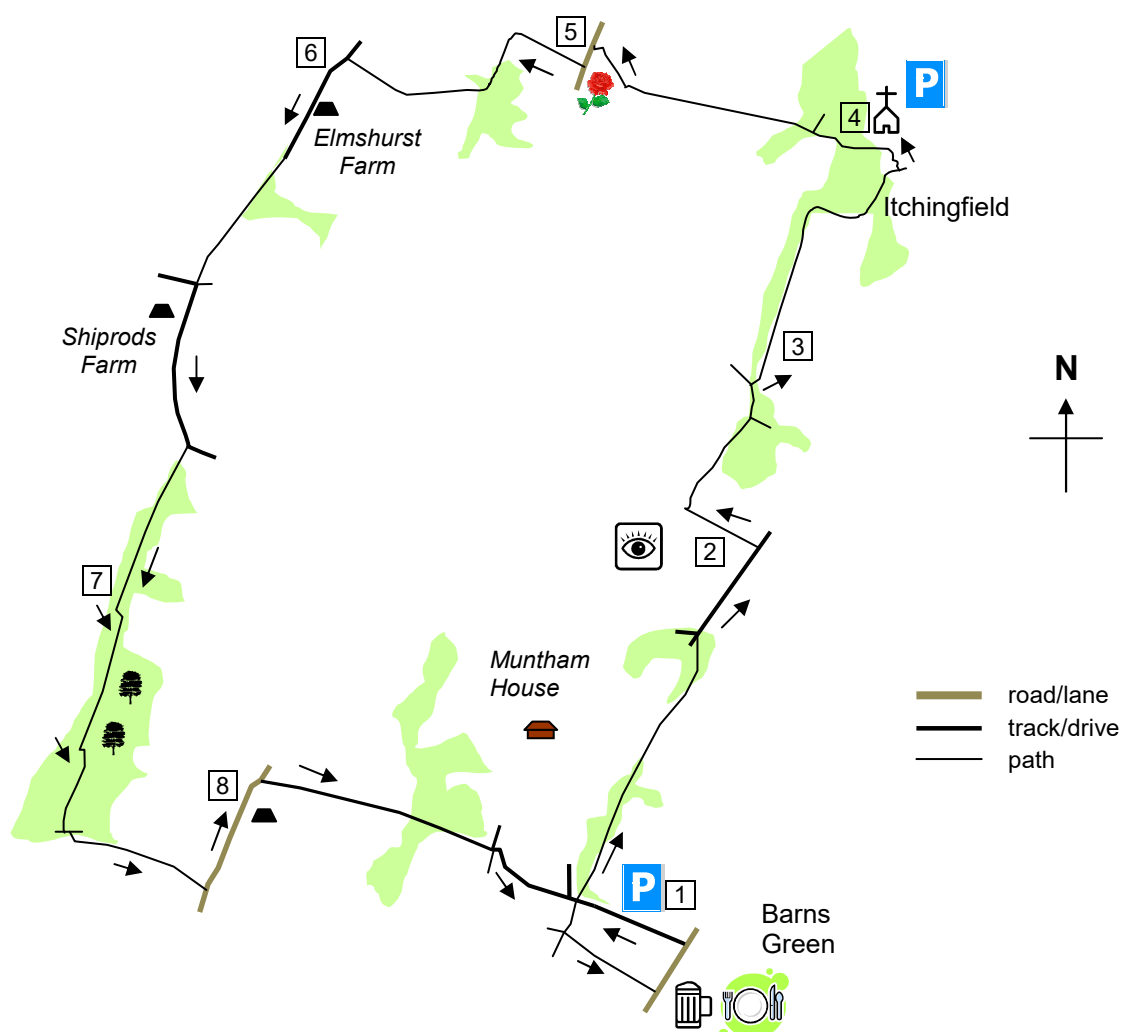

This walk is usually nettle-free, making shorts wearable. But in past years, there have been some fringes of nettles in high summer. When this walk was researched in the summer of 2016, despite the recent heavy rains, the paths chosen were all firm and reasonably dry. As always, boots are the best option though, essential in winter. This walk would be fine with your dog: all the stiles have a gap or a doggy gate; there is some livestock along the way, so a lead is required!

The walk begins in Village Car Park of Barns Green, near Horsham, West Sussex, www.w3w.co/fattest.choppers.anyway, postcode RH13 0PT. In the unlikely case that this generous car park is full or reserved for an event, you could park opposite the Queens Head pub. You could also park by Itchingfield Church, postcode RH13 0NX, assuming that there is no special service in progress, placing the pub  $\frac{2}{3}$  of the way round. For more details, see at the end of this text (→ Getting There).

The Walk

Barns Green was once called Slaughterford and the name persists in some place names. It was always no more than a small collection of houses and farms, expanding a little after the war to resettle homeless people. The village lies on the railway line between Horsham and Billingshurst but it is too insignificant to have its own railway halt.

- 1 Leave the car park, back to Muntham Drive and turn right on it. In under 100m, just before the drive comes out of the trees, you will see a fingerpost and a small wooden gate on your right. Turn right through this (avoidable) gate on a path through the woods. On your left is Muntham House, now a school for boys with special needs. Ignore a crossing path at a 4-way fingerpost. After 700m on this path, you come through a patch of woodland and then a small wooden gate to the right of a larger wooden gate, and onto a drive coming from the school. Avoid the track ahead and instead turn right on an easy straight track. In 230m, you come to a 4-way fingerpost. Turn left here over a stile into a meadow. (The track also leads onwards to Itchingfield but the route chosen for this walk is a series of lush meadows giving you a sudden surprise encounter with the church.)

- 2 Walk straight ahead on a grassy path between fences, with great views left to the South Downs, and some solitary rugby posts. At the other side, go over a stile and immediately turn very sharp right at a fingerpost (hidden in bushes: do not miss this turning!) to go over another stile and then a 2-plank bridge with handrail. Go along the right-hand side of a grassy field and, at the other side, keep ahead through a wooden swing-gate and continue as before in the next field. In 100m, ignore a swing-gate on your right and continue beside the meadow, but only for another 50m to reach a 3-arm fingerpost under a large oak tree. Avoid a path ahead that cuts across the meadow and instead go right through a wooden swing-gate and over a 2-plank bridge onto a fenced path.

- 3 Turn immediately left along the left-hand side of the grassy field. In 100m, in the corner, go over a 2-plank bridge into the next meadow and continue as before. You can see the cedar by Itchingfield Church ahead. In 50m, ignore a 4-way fingerpost. In 250m, in the far corner, go right. Just before the next corner, your path takes you left through a small wooden gate into the woods and then down over a bridge with handrails. Just after the bridge, avoid a gate leading into a meadow and instead turn left at a 3-way fingerpost onto a path into the woods. The path leads over a 2-plank bridge and up, past an old kissing-gate, into the precincts of St Nicholas' church, Itchingfield. Go past the little timbered Priest's House and turn left to the church.

St Nicolas Church in Itchingfield was built around 1125 and two walls and some windows survive from that time. Some more windows are from the 1400s and there is an aumbry (a cupboard used to store sacred paraphernalia) dating from the 1100s. The oak bell tower is unique and you won't have seen the like in this country. It is completely free-standing. There is still a medieval staircase to the belfry, too fragile to use. The charming timbered Priest's House in the churchyard dates from the Middle Ages. The church was extended in 1865 by none less than Sir George Gilbert Scott, designer of St Pancras Station.

- 4 Keep left, past the west side of the church with its free-standing wooden tower and under the great yew tree. Your path takes you down old stone steps and left beside a fenced off garden. It zigzags down to a modern kissing-gate, over a 2-plank bridge and on a path between wire fences. Shortly, at a 3-way fingerpost, ignore a path on the right. Your path crosses a stream via a long bridge and takes you up steps, through a wooden swing-gate into a floral meadow. Go straight ahead on a path across the centre. You may have noticed for some time that you are on the West Sussex Literary Trail; this is a 55-mile walk from Horsham to Chichester, along which you meet Shelley, William Penn, John Galsworthy and Hilaire Belloc. Your path goes straight up the hill and through a large (usually open) metal gate at a fingerpost, into the next meadow. Keep ahead on a faint path which runs about 15m from the left-hand edge. Your route veers left through a wooden swing-gate and then right on a narrow path parallel to a driveway on your left belonging to The Warren, Bashurst Hill. The whole length of the hedge is a line of wild roses and their wafted fragrance in summer is one of the joys of this walk. The scented path finally goes through a small wooden gate, left to join the drive and right to a tarmac lane.

- 5 Turn left on the lane and, in 50m, turn right at a 1-arm fingerpost onto a driveway for Black Cherry Farm, still on the Literary Trail. The drive bends left to reach a large metal security gate. Here, go over a flimsy stile and shortly, at another gate, keep to the left on a fenced path, as directed, joining a track leading into a large pasture via a large metal gate. Bear a fraction right to walk beside a wire fence that separates you from a smaller sheep field. At the other side, go through a metal kissing-gate, over a stile. Now continue straight ahead, as directed by a 2-arm fingerpost, along the left-hand side of a meadow. At the other side, go over a rare "T-V" stile and turn left on a wide track, signposted as a bridleway.

- 6 Keep ahead past the house and buildings of Elmshurst Farm and go through a small wooden gate beside a large one. You are now on a fine surfaced woodland path In 200m or so, your path narrows and runs in a more open landscape. You come through a small metal gate and arrive at a signposted junction of tracks. Keep straight on, through a small wooden gate beside a larger wooden gate, passing Shiprods Farmhouse on your right, and follow a concrete drive running beside open fields. In 150m, the drive veers left beside a wood. Where the track bends left into an avenue of oaks, leave it by keeping right on a rough track, as directed by a 3-arm fingerpost. Ignore a stile on your right after 100m. After 250m through handsome woodland, just as the line of oaks on your right ends, look to your left for a metal kissing-gate. Don't miss this turn! Go through this gate and follow a parallel path in the wood.

- 7 In 120m, you glimpse from your woodland path a boundary between fields on your right. Opposite the next field boundary, 200m later, your path suddenly kinks left and right at a fingerpost, now deeper in the wood. After a twisty 200m, you come out of the wood onto a grassy bank just before a stream. Turn left and immediately turn right over a 2-plank bridge and go through a metal kissing-gate, leading into a large meadow of waving grass. Turn left along the left-hand edge of the meadow, as directed. In 100m, you pass some field gates on your left and go over a wide plank bridge. Continue to the far corner and go through a metal kissing-gate, over a 2-plank bridge to a tarmac lane. Turn left on the lane.
- 8 In 150m, you pass an untidy farm and, just as the lane curves right, an old farm house (covered in scaffold since 2020). Immediately after the house, turn right on a signposted track, through a large metal gate. The track is surfaced at first, then degrades as it runs 200m straight across the centre of a meadow. At the other side go through a large metal gate into woodland. [\[Mar 2020: A walker found a pleasant alternative back to the pub: Turn right on a signed permissive footpath. This yields a lovely vista of a lake \(shown as *The Chestnuts* on the OS map\) which you can walk round. At the far end, after a short driveway and a stile, take a footpath diagonally across a field to another stile which re-joins the original footpath.\]](#) This path runs under trees, tarmacked in patches, and comes out after 200m to a junction of tracks opposite a house called Owlers. Ignore a wooden gate into a pasture on your right and turn right on a wide track. The track veers left and, after 200m, you pass the entrance to Muntham House school. In just 20m, opposite a wooden gate on your left, turn right on a bridleway which may be familiar from your outward journey. In 80m, at a 4-way fingerpost, turn left on a narrow bridleway, leading, in 200m or so, to the road in the village of Barns Green, opposite the Queens Head. After your well-earned break, go along the road with the pub on your right and, in 150m, turn left on the lane, Muntham Drive, quickly reaching the car park where the walk began.

Getting there

By car: Barns Green is easiest to reach via the A29, just north of Billingshurst. If coming from the north, look for a sign Barns Green 3 about ¼ mile before the roundabout where the Billingshurst bypass begins. (If you miss it, you can turn round at the roundabout.) Follow the bendy road 1½ miles to a T-junction. Turn right and, in 75 yds, turn left at an old-fashioned signpost for Barns Green. Follow this very bendy road for 1¼ miles, passing the Queens Head pub and turn left on Muntham Drive. The car park is shortly on the right.

By bus/train: buses 74, 75, 76 from Horsham station, not Sunday. Check the timetables.